Nilkamal (NILK) reported an excellent set of numbers for 4QFY2016. The standalone top-line grew by $2.6 \%$ yoy to ₹ 503 cr . On the operating front, the raw material cost declined by 582 bp yoy to $56.4 \%$ of sales while employee and other expenses increased by 104bp yoy and 146bp yoy to $6.8 \%$ and $23.6 \%$ of sales, respectively. Aided by lower material cost, the EBITDA margin expanded by 333 bp yoy to $13.1 \%$. The interest outgo declined by $30 \%$ yoy to ₹ 4 cr while the depreciation expense increased by $27.6 \%$ yoy to $₹ 16 \mathrm{cr}$. Consequently, the net profit grew by $50.6 \%$ yoy to ₹ 33 cr .
Recovery in overall economy to aid in maintaining top-line growth: The plastics division which accounts for a majority of the company's revenue (86\%) reported a marginal volume growth of $3 \%$ in FY2016 after strong growth of 10\% in FY2015. Going forward, with gradual improvement in the macro environment, both the moulded furniture and material handling segments should perform well as they stand to be direct beneficiaries of an economic revival.

Strong Balance sheet: NILK has been steadily reducing its debt and should be debt free by FY2017E, thereby resulting in interest cost savings. It has carried out incremental capex of $₹ 38 \mathrm{cr}$ in FY2016 and we do not foresee any large expenditure in the near future. The company's return ratios have improved significantly in FY2016 on account of RM cost benefit along with better asset turnover. Going forward, although the return ratios are estimated to regress on account of lower margins which would be due to an anticipated increase in RM cost, the company's return ratios are expected to continue to be stable on back of increase in turnover.
Outlook and Valuation: The company's core plastics division has posted a CAGR of $\sim 8.0 \%$ over FY2011-16 and is expected to maintain similar pace over FY2016-18E, thereby resulting in an overall revenue CAGR of $7.6 \%$ over FY 2016 -18E to ₹2,165. On account of increase in RM cost, the EBITDA margin is expected to soften to $10.4 \%$ and the net profit is expected to be at ₹ 120 cr in FY2018E. At the current market price, the stock is trading at FY2018E PE of $16.3 x$. We have a Neutral rating on the stock.

Top-line meets our estimates, EBITDA and Net Profit beat expectation

NILK reported an excellent set of numbers for 4QFY2016. The standalone top-line grew by $2.6 \%$ yoy to $₹ 503 \mathrm{cr}$ which is the same as our estimate. Polyethylene remained flat and we reckon towards the plastics division having posted a marginal volume growth of $\sim 2 \%$ during the quarter.

For FY2016, the company's standalone top-line grew by $4.7 \%$ yoy to $₹ 1,870 \mathrm{cr}$. As per the Management, the plastics division registered a volume growth of $3 \%$ and the division's revenue grew by $4.3 \%$ yoy to $₹ 1,613 \mathrm{cr}$.

On the back of lower raw material cost, EBITDA grew by $37.5 \%$ yoy to ₹ 66 cr and the EBITDA margin expanded by 333bp yoy to $13.1 \%$ which is higher than our estimate of $10.2 \%$. We had estimated raw material cost to be on the higher side which resulted in the deviation in margin vis-a-vis our estimates.

The company has reduced the debt quantum by $₹ 100 \mathrm{cr}$ over the past year, which has resulted in lower interest outgo. Interest expense declined by $30.0 \%$ yoy to ₹ 4 cr but depreciation expense rose by $27.6 \%$ yoy to ₹ 16 cr . Consequently, the net profit grew by $50.6 \%$ yoy to ₹ 33 cr , outperforming our estimate of $₹ 23 \mathrm{cr}$.

For FY2016, the top-line for the segment remained flat at ₹ 35 cr while the segment reported a loss of $₹ 1.4 \mathrm{cr}$ against a profit of $₹ 0.2 \mathrm{cr}$ in the last year.

Investment Arguments

Plastics division to benefit from revival in Economy

After a strong rebound in volumes in FY2015, the volumes for the plastics division of the company have posted marginal growth rate of $3 \%$ for FY 2016 . The plastic division accounts for $\sim 86 \%$ of the company's revenues and both the segments within the division, viz moulded furniture ( $\sim 36 \%$ of total revenue) and material handling ( $\sim 36 \%$ of total revenue) should benefit from improvement in the macro conditions and disposable incomes.

The material handling segment is B 2 B in nature and is an important part of industrial activity. NILK is a 'One Stop Shop' for material handling solutions, with the company being the largest manufacturer of plastic crates and other products like pallets, metal storage racks, and material handling equipment for various industries. As per an industry report, Supreme Industries, which is the second largest material handling player, is very small compared to NILK in terms of size of its material handling business with revenue of $\sim$ ₹ 240 cr against $\sim ₹ 940 \mathrm{cr}$ for NILK.

Strong balance sheet

NILK has reduced its debt over the past year by $\sim ₹ 100 \mathrm{cr}$ and is expected to be net debt free by FY2017E. The company generates strong operating cash flows which should enable it to reduce its debt, take care of incremental capex and increase its dividend payout. Interest expense has nearly halved as a result of its debt reduction and it will further reduce and aid the bottom-line. The RolC has improved significantly from $11.6 \%$ in FY2O15 to $23.0 \%$ in FY2O16 and is estimated to improve to $24.0 \%$ in FY 2018 E .

Revenue to post 7.6\% CAGR over FY2016-18E

NILK's plastic division has grown at $\sim 8.0 \%$ over FY2011-2016. We are estimating the division to post a revenue CAGR of $8.3 \%$ over FY2016-18E resulting in the overall top-line registering a CAGR of $7.6 \%$ over FY2016-2018E to $₹ 2,165 \mathrm{cr}$ in FY2018E.

Exhibit 8: Revenue to improve by 7.6\% CAGR over FY2016-18E

EBITDA margins have improved significantly in FY2016 largely owing to lower raw material costs. Average polyethylene prices declined by $8.6 \%$ in FY2016 and the prices are likely to increase from here on which should result in higher RM cost going forward. The EBITDA margin is likely to contract from $11.5 \%$ in FY2016 to 10.4\% in FY2018E.

Outlook and Valuation

The plastics division has posted a CAGR $\sim 8.0 \%$ over FY2011-16 and is expected to maintain similar pace over FY2016-18E resulting in overall revenue CAGR of $7.6 \%$ over FY2016-18E to ₹2,165. On account of increase in RM cost, the EBITDA margin is expected to be at $10.4 \%$ in FY 2018 E and the net profit is expected to be at ₹ 120 cr in FY2018E. At the current market price, the stock is trading at FY2018E PE of 16.3x. We have a Neutral rating on the stock.

Concerns

Volatile raw material prices: Raw materials account for $63 \%$ of net sales. High volatility in crude and raw material prices could have a negative impact on the company's performance.

Economic slowdown: Economic slowdown will have a negative impact on the performance of the company as both plastics and @home are dependent on the economic scenario.

Competition from the unorganized segment: Availability of low priced furniture from the unorganized segment poses a threat as it is able to undercut prices by compromising on quality.
